V: WRITING (20 points)

Instructions: Choose ONE of the following prompts and write an essay of 250–400 words on it.

Please remember to write an introduction with a thesis statement, body paragraphs, and a conclusion using appropriate linkers and conjunctions. Pay attention to how explicit and fully developed your ideas are. Mind the correct use of English.

1. Natural disasters like earthquakes, floods, wildfires, etc. have increased over the years. These unexpected events can result in property damage, great environmental problems, and the loss of human lives. What measures could be taken by modern societies to reduce the harmful effects of natural disasters?
2. Lying is a typical behavior problem for teenagers. According to surveys, it is almost certain that teenagers have lied or will lie to their parents about something. What do you think the causes AND/OR effects of a teenage lying to parents might be?
3. News is the most valuable source of up-to-date information about the political, cultural, and social life of people across the globe. Compare AND/OR contrast the ways people get news nowadays and the ways they used to receive news in the middle of the 20th century.

OUTLINE: The space given below is for those who may want to make an outline before starting writing.
(Your outline will NOT be evaluated).
